Book signing event for Woodbury County Courthouse book

Just in time for the holidays, the Sioux City Public Museum will host a book signing for Woodbury County Courthouse Revealed, on Sunday, December 13 from 2 to 4 p.m.

Woodbury County Courthouse Revealed is the latest offering from the award-winning team at G.R. Lindblade & Co. This 112-page, hardcover coffee table book with dust jacket was written by Lou Ann Lindblade, photographed by George Lindblade and Christine McAvoy and designed by Lou Ann Lindblade and Christine McAvoy. The beautiful full color book is filled with hundreds of photos and wonderful stories about the courthouse.

The Woodbury County Courthouse is the largest 'publicly owned' Prairie School style building in the world. Designed by local architect William L. Steele, the 1918 courthouse is on the National Register of Historic Places and is designated a National Historic Landmark.

The Woodbury County Courthouse Revealed book will be available at the book signing event for its retail price of $29.95 with a discount available for members of the Sioux City Museum & Historical Association. Note cards featuring terra cotta from the courthouse will also be available for $5.00.

An American Classic, A Sioux City Staple and The Last Great Neighborhood: The South Bottoms, two recent DVDs from G.R. Lindblade & Co., will be shown during the event.

Admission to the Sioux City Public Museum, 2901 Jackson Street, is free. For more information, call 712-279-6174 or visit www.siouxcitymuseum.org.
